

AIO about my boyfriend's threats?

I (27F) am a full-time streamer making $14k monthly, which has supported both me and my BF (29M) for the past year. Yesterday I tried having a serious talk with him about our relationship issues and mentioned possibly breaking up. He immediately threatened to turn off our WiFi during my streams if I leave him.

I'm honestly terrified. Streaming is my livelihood and career - I have contracts and commitments to meet.

One dropped stream could seriously damage my reputation and income. But at the same time, I don't want to stay in a relationship where I'm being manipulated and threatened.

He's now acting like it was "just a joke" but I feel like this crossed a major line. He knows exactly how much my career means to me and threatened to deliberately ruin it. I already have anxiety about technical issues during streams, and now I'm constantly worried he might follow through.

Am I overreacting by seeing this as relationship-ending behavior? Should I be more understanding since he was upset in the moment? I feel trapped

Am I overreacting by seeing this as relationship-ending behavior? I should be more understanding since he was upset in the moment? I feel trapped between protecting my career and getting out of what increasingly feels like a toxic situation.

Update: Yes, this is the same guy who stole $200 for g* mbling a few months ago. I know how this probably looks. I just need outside perspective to confirm I'm am normal for being scared and upset about this.

Stephen Baske So you're a fucking idiot. You're the one with a nazi president and drowning in the far right, while Ukraine was always the safest country for Jewish people in the whole Eastern Europe. Keep spewing propaganda, trash.

Tania Dubodiel The same president who recognized Jerusalem as the official capital of Israel? I cannot wait for your unelected dictator gay actor to be arrested by Russian forces. In the meantime get some help for your obvious mental disabilities. That mask has obviously limited 02 to your brain.
